Community Need: Healthy Minds & Bodies

- Obesity has become a public health crisis. In the U.S.A., the rate has more than doubled since 1990, from about 12 percent to nearly 25 percent. Communities of color have seen the most rapid increases in obesity rates. (Center for Disease Control, 2006)

- An estimated 71 million American adults now suffer from heart disease, stroke and other forms of cardiovascular diseases. (American Heart Association, 2010)
- As the baby boomers age, deaths from heart disease are projected to increase by 130 percent between 2000 and 2050. (National Institute of Health, 2008)
- Regular exercise is proven to prevent, treat or improve obesity, hypertension, cardiovascular disease, diabetes and asthma. It also is essential for managing stress and the symptoms of depression. (U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, 2002)
- Falls are the leading cause of death for people over 65. Exercise and strength training are essential elements in effective fall prevention programs. (Center for Disease Control, 2005)
